GENERAL TAYLOR IS WILLING TO FIGHT

Seek To Cut Ike Request, Billion

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Democratic congressional leaders prepared today to put President Eisenhower's foreign aid program through a shake-down process to reduce its cost by about one billion dollars.

The Democrats promised scrutiny of each detail of the $3,929,895,000 recommendation for the next fiscal year, "Meat Axe" surgery on the President's proposal was ruled out.

But Senate Democratic Whip Mike Mansfield Mont. called the total "too high" and expressed belief the total outlay would be cut to three billion dollars.

Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. William Fulbright D-Ark. lent his influential voice to the economists. He said the committee would need to engage in "considerable surgery" if the bill was to fully serve the national interest.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee gets first crack at the program Monday when it meets to hear Acting Secretary of State Christian A. Herter plug for extension of the Mutual Security Act.

Committee Chairman Thomas E. Morgan D-Pa. set the tone for the session when he said Friday there had been too much "waste and inefficiency" in the program's operation. He said his committee would do its best to "eradicate" any waste.

A warning of possible cuts also came from Rep. Otto E. Passman D-La., chairman of the House

Winter Holds Grip On Most Of Nation

United Press International

Winter kept its blustery grip on the nation Saturday as several Western states dug out from under a new onslaught of snow and wind.

Up to three inches of new snow fell in central Pennsylvania, but above - freezing temperatures quickly turned the snow into slush which in turn touched off a rash of minor auto accidents.

Light precipitation was reported in the far Northwest, the northern Rockies, the eastern Coast States region and parts of New England.

But clearing skies and warming temperatures helped clear away much of the snow that crippled the East earlier this week and the weather bureau forecast more warm and fair weather for the Eastern seaboard.

Scattered showers were predicted for the lower Mississippi Valley, with more snow flurries across the Rockies and northern plain states and from the Great Lakes into parts of New England.

Cooler weather was to move from the Rockies into the plains, with warmer temperatures in the East and Northwest.

Mrs. Arden Loses Part Of One Finger

AECADIA, Calif. (UPI) — Mrs. Elizabeth Graham Arden, owner of Maine Chance Farm, had the end of her right finger bitten off by her stakes winner on Friday.

A Santa Anita race track spokesman said the accident occurred Thursday while Mrs. Graham was petting the 1958 World Memorial winner in his stall. The four-year-old Thoroughbred made a sudden grab and caught her finger at the first joint.

Stable observers said Mrs. Graham "didn't flinch, faint or become ill," but asked to taken to the track hospital. She later received treatment at the Methodist Hospital near the track.

Mrs. Graham left for her New York home a few hours after the accident.

Jewel's Reward had little success in campaigning at Santa Anita which closed a meeting earlier this week. He was the favorite for the 1958 Kentucky Derby but was beaten by Calumet Farm's Tim Tam.

Celebration On Statehood Ends On Hawaii Islands

HONOLULU (UPI) — The two-day statehood celebration ended Friday night when Hawaii's legislators conducted a pageant and tributes to those who made statehood possible.

The pageant was enacted on the second floor balcony of the Iolani Palace, where 2,000 persons jammed the grounds to watch the historic event.

Earlier the legislators had filed solemnly from their respective chambers to a platform erected at the foot of the palace steps. They were joined there by distinguished guests, including former delegates to Congress Victor S. K. Houston and Mrs. Betty Farrington.

Delegate John A. Burns — who was among 16 members of Congress honored by resolutions adopted by the territorial Senate in a brief meeting — was not present.

Ernest Elmer F. Cravath, Jr., who has exemplified, in his opinion, the finest, the best, the humility of this people of ours.

Senate President Herbert K. H. Lee told the crowd that the spontaneous celebrations of the night before had been accompanied by rejoicing throughout the free world.

"All of us must shoulder our responsibilities...and gear our attitude, culture and way of life with the rest of the world," Lee said.

The celebration was brought to an end by a crashing 50-gun salute by a Marine artillery battery after the Royal Hawaiian band had played the Star-Spangled Banner.

Says He Believes This Stand Will Help To Check Russia

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Fight-it-out testimony by Army Chief of Staff Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor provided new evidence today that the United States is willing to wage general war to keep Berlin.

Taylor's testimony was made public by the Senate preparedness subcommittee Friday night. Despite security deletions, it seemed to indicate that the general's conviction was shared by the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

It was clear that Taylor felt a clear expression of willingness to fight is the most likely deterrent to stop Russia from precipitating a war over Berlin.

President Eisenhower also has spoken of "perilous consequences" if the Russians seek to force this country, France and Britain from the Western sector of the former German capital.

Taylor appeared before the subcommittee Monday, but the testimony had to go through Pentagon censorship before it could be made public.

He said "national determination" to fight an all-out war was most likely to stop the Russians from launching one. The Joint Chiefs of Staff, he added, has plans to

Deny Khrushchev Has Retreated From His Stand

BERLIN (UPI) — Two top Communist propagandists denied heatedly today that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev has retreated from his determination to end the occupation of Berlin.

Erich Selbmann, Communist boss of East Berlin, and Gerhard Eisler, ball-jumping fugitive from U. S. justice, said in separate articles in the Red-edited Berliner Zeitung that Russia stands firmly behind its demand for the conversion of West Berlin into an undefended "free city."

Selbmann also reiterated the Communist demand for an all-German peace treaty.

The Selbmann-Eisler declarations on Berlin appeared to be intended to explain the "soft" communique issued after Khrushchev's visit this week to the East German republic.

The communique mentioned neither Khrushchev's May 27 deadline for deoccupation of Berlin which he has indicated might be extended nor his treat to sign a separate peace with East Germany.

A Neues Deutschland editorial demanding an all-German peace treaty also refrained from mentioning a possible separate peace with Russia.

Both Selbmann and Eisler assailed West Berlin's Mayor Willy Brandt, denouncing him as an "errand boy" and saying that his policies would mean "isolation, unrest and insecurity" for West Berlin.

Eisler, who is deputy chairman of East Germany's radio network, also declared that "West Berlin will become a free demilitarized city." He devoted most of his article, however, to an attack on Brandt.

meet the Berlin crisis and the Army has strength-at home and abroad — to carry them out.

Taylor said the Army is ready to go right now and that it can retaliate immediately and effectively. The Army would go into such a battle for Berlin with "the capability" to use nuclear weapons, Taylor said.

The free world could not defend itself against the total strength of Communist armies if "we abstained from using nuclear weapons," he testified.

He added that President Eisenhower would be the one who would decide whether to use them. Taylor, who served as Allied commander in Berlin immediately after the 1948 Berlin airlift, implied in his testimony that the airlift may have been a mistake.

Maurice Ryan Is Faculty Club Speaker Thursday

Maurice Ryan chairman of the Murray Board of Education spoke to the Murray Faculty Club Thursday Evening. Ryan pointed out that the Murray Schools are fortunate in having a well trained faculty that is far above the average of the State. He also said this was one of the main reasons why our schools have the high rating they now have.

He said, the Board of Education and Superintendent Carter are backing the teachers in every way possible to promote a better school system. He warned that we should not become complacent, but go forward.

According to Mr. Ryan the schools of our country are big business and should be handled in a business like way.

Good teachers love children and are not satisfied until the job is well done. In order for our schools to be what we want and expect we must realize it is a job that needs the cooperative effort of the Board of Education, Superintendent, Principals, teachers and parents he said.

We must put forth every effort to educate and train our boys and girls, for we realize they are to be the citizens of tomorrow, he concluded.

Country Ripe For Biological Warfare "Pearl Harbor", Myler

By JOSEPH L. MYLER

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This country is ripe for biological warfare "BW Pearl Harbor," Russia obviously has what it takes to wage germ warfare.

It is possible that many hours and even days might elapse before the United States even knew it had been subjected to sneak BW attack.

The first intimation might well be an influx to doctors' offices and hospitals of patients suffering from debilitating or incapacitating maladies defying immediate diagnosis.

"These conclusions stem from lectures on BW given at the Naval Medical Center, Bethesda, Md. in connection with a current drive for armed forces medical officers on the medical aspects of "special weapons."

No Advance Warning

The lectures, including some of this country's foremost authorities on germ warfare, agreed that: No advance warning of a BW attack is currently likely.

All of the major nations are striving to manufacture new agents of infection which will defy quick diagnosis, immunization, and treatment with antibiotic drugs.

BW provides the most effective means of subduing an enemy population without killing it off or destroying its economy.

The most effective way of waging BW against a nation is by means of clouds or aerosols of vapor impregnated with disease-bearing viruses, bacteria, or spores. Aerosol generators may be developed.

At the organization meeting last fall 15 persons attended and elected "Mr. Manning Steward, Murray, as president. From 35 to 50 persons are expected to attend the March meeting.

Mr. Steward reported that the group plans to devote its activities to all phases of Jackson Purchase history from time it was Cherokee Indian territory, through the treaty of 1818 which made it a part of Kentucky, and other periods of historical interest, particularly the Civil War.

At the November meeting Circuit Judge Earle Osborne of Benton reported on white men in the area before the 1818 treaty. For the summer meeting the group hopes to meet at Fort Hymon on Kentucky Lake to hear a paper on the area's role in the Civil War.

North Marshall Pushed Hard By Tilghman; Meets Gophers Tonight

By JAMES LEE HARMON
Ledger & Times Sports Writer

The North Marshall Jets survived another real test of strength and a switch in round ball style to zoom into the orbit of the final game of the First Region Tournament scheduled here tonight at 8:00.

A large crowd in the sports arena saw Paducah Tilghman hold North's first to the fire in a "de-berate" battle right down to the wire before bowing to the big red power 38-36 in a low-scoring game, especially for the free running Jets.

The second game last night saw the Fancy Farm Golden Gophers take a commanding lead early in the final canto to post a 38-43 win over rival Lowes. The Blue Devils and the Gophers had a split series at 2-2 before last night's tilt.

It was actually driving Jimmy Lamplsey that led the game on for the stalling Jets with five charity tosses in the last 56 seconds of the game. Holding a five-point margin, North had the upper hand 33-28 when Lamplsey snared the first of his five important tosses. Six seconds later Lamplsey was fouled again and the scrappy guard pushed in both tosses.

Tilghman, with possession of the ball, raced to the other end of the court but missed its shot from the field. In the scramble for possession a jump was called and Tilghman took the toss-up. The Tornado squad cut the count back to six points, 36-30, with 33 seconds remaining to be played.

Lamplsey was fouled again with 20 seconds to go and calmly pushed in both shots for the final 38-30 score. In the waning seconds Paducah lost the ball, Larimer drove for the basket but missed, and the ball bounded out of bounds. A closing shot by North went wide of its mark.

North Marshall took the opening up-off in the first quarter but lost the ball to Tilghman. Stamper opened the scoring with a tally from the gratis line. North roared back and Doyle pushed in a long jumper. Larimer drove a free throw but did not make the attempt good. Playing a deliberate type ball with three men way out front leaving the key-hole wide open, Paducah waited for a eager to break away from his man and down the slot. The game went scoreless until Stubblefield fired in a bucket with 4:36 left in the first quarter to give Paducah a 5-2 edge.

The Jets rushed to their own basket but could not produce a tally and the Tornado took over again. A minute later Mutchler made good a field goal attempt and Tilghman enjoyed a 7-2 advantage which Mutchler and Stubblefield extended to 10-2 on the strength of a charity toss and a field goal. North picked up three more points in the period as the Jets began to ease up their speedy offense. Spiceland put through a free throw and Lamplsey notched a fielder. At the end of the first quarter North Marshall trailed 5-10.

Stubblefield kicked-off the second stanza with a field goal for Tilghman but Lamplsey and Doyle cut the margin back to four points with accurate gratis tosses. North pulled within one point with 6:56 left in the first half as Larimer blasted a long jumper and Lamplsey drew a trip to the free throw lane for one tally. But Paducah broke away again with a good pass to Denton wide open under the basket for the easy goal. Seconds later Tilghman went on the attack again and Mutchler drove around his man for a 16-11 lead.

Doyle picked up a three-point shot with 3:02 left on the clock to narrow Tilghman's lead to two points, 16-14. The game went scoreless in the three remaining minutes.

Tilghman took the toss-up at the start of the third quarter but the Tornado shot rimmed off and North's Larimer knotted the count seconds later on a jumper from deep in the corner. Paducah picked up two consecutive free throws to grasp the lead but Lamplsey retailed for the Jets and North took its first lead 19-18 on a charity toss by Powell at 4:25.

Stubblefield fired in a bucket with 3:58 left on the clock to give Paducah the lead, 20-19. Larimer found the range and Lamplsey took two free throws for the Tornado to hold a 23-22 edge at the close of the third quarter.

Paducah held its last lead of the ball game at 24-23 as Mutchler fired in a field goal early in the fourth period. The game picked up speed and North played its running game for a 28-24 advantage as Paducah, evidently quite shaken, called time out.

With the ball back in play, Larimer made good a free throw, Doyle broke open for a basket and North led 31-24. Stubblefield tallied again for the fabricating Tornado and Tilghman applied the all-court press.

North Marshall took too long in getting the ball to the safety of the 10-second line and Tilghman took over. Powell was fouled and made good his attempt. Paducah's Stubblefield pushed in one more fielder to trail 28-33 before Lamplsey's series of charity tosses led the victory.

The Jets hit 10 of 29 field goal attempts for 34 per cent and 18 of 26 free throws for 75 per cent. North was charged with 8 personal fouls and picked up 25 rebounds with Spiceland the leading man on the boards picking off 6. Paducah connected on 13 of 34 field goal attempts for 38 per cent but only 4 of 10 charity tosses for a low 40 per cent. Tilghman was charged with 16 fouls and picked up 25 rebounds. Mutchler led his team in that department with 7.

Jimmy Lamplsey led North Marshall's scoring with 13 points but gave up game honors to the losers' Craig Stubblefield with 15 markers. Doyle totaled 9 points and Larimer totaled 2 points and played an outstanding game for the Jets.

Jerry Hobbs broke a 7-7 tie that started Fancy Farm off on a scoring attack that carried the Golden Gophers to a 14-7 first period advantage. Fancy Farm led by as much as 10 points early in the second quarter but Gourley and Hughes paced Lowes back to within in four points, 23, with 2:50 left in the half.

Kenny Dalton took command and led the Gophers to a 31-22 halftime margin as Lowes was set with personal fouls in the late part of the period.

The two squads battled on even terms in the third period and Lowes' Blue Devils were able to trim off three points, trailing 35-43, as the final stanza got underway.

Hobbs picked up a fielder, Kenny Dalton produced a couple of field goals and Fancy Farm was off in an offensive climb that carried the Gophers to a 15-point advantage with three minutes left in the game. Lowes picked up six additional points before time ran out leaving Fancy Farm with the 58-43 victory.

North Marshall and Fancy Farm will meet tonight at 8:00 in the Murray State Sports Arena. One of the two squads will represent the First Region at the "sweet sixteen" in Lexington next week. Favored North took a tilt from the Gophers before a Murray crowd early in December with a comparatively easy win. The Jets seem to be an odds-on favorite for the crown.

Fancy Farm hit 20 of 48 from the field for 44 per cent while Lowes which fired in a good percentage Thursday night connected on only 14 of 49 tries for a low 29 per cent. The Gophers pushed in 18 of 27 from the charity lane for 67 per cent and the Blue Devils hit 15 of 25 for 60 per cent.

Fancy Farm picked up 33 rebounds with Dalton getting 11 and was charged with 18 personal fouls. Lowes grabbed 42 rebounds led by Townsend with 8 and was charged with 20 personals.

Kenny Dalton was high for the night with 24 points. Hobbs had 16 and Kileayne pushed in 13 markers. Holt, Blue Devil substitute, led the team with 11 points. North Marshall (38): Doyle 10, Larimer 9, Spiceland 3, Lamplsey 13, Powell 3.

Tilghman (30): Mutchler 6, Dalton 4, Pfanst 2, Stamper 1, Stubblefield 15.

CHAPTER 28
A THING drove through the tunnels into Manhattan, Bruno Manfredi said. "Where to?" and Murray Kirk said "Make it your place. Wykoff might check the office and the hotel in a little while, and I don't want to be around when he does. Meanwhile, we can look over these papers and see what they're all about."

"It's that what you want," said Bruno.

Lucy Manfredi was seated at the kitchen table drinking coffee when they walked in. In a pair of worn slippers, her nose pressed down at the hem, her hair in pin curlers, and with a newspaper propped before her against the sugar bowl she looked like an exaggerated picture of weary domesticity. She raised her eyebrows at the sight of her husband's companion.

"Well, what do you know?" she said caustically. "Look at the great man himself. I'm surprised he even came in here when one of my ugly girl friends might jump out of the closet and grab him." She pointed an accusing finger at Murray. "You got a nerve, you with that kind of talk. You ought to be ashamed."

"Me?" said Murray. "What did I do?"

"You know. He knows, too," Lucy turned the finger on Bruno. "Didn't you tell me?"

Bruno sighed. "I told you. Now it's him alone, because he's already got a girl friend. And what's it your business, anyhow? Just fix up some coffee for us, and stop worrying about who's getting married to who. Or would you rather have a shot of hard stuff?" he asked Murray.

"A shot," Murray said.

He had one, and then another, while Lucy regarded him with unabashed interest, her elbow planted on the table, chin cupped in her hand. "Who's the girl friend?" she asked. "The crazy one from Texas you had here that time?"

"Maybe."

"Maybe. Ah, you're still talking like that, Murray; you're still old Mr. Careful. Say, you know what I think? I think you're turning into one of those guys who's so scared of marrying the wrong girl they never get married at all. You wait and see if that don't happen."

"All right, if that's what you want, I'll wait and see."

"Look," said Bruno, "I told you to let him alone. Now will you clear up this table so we can get some work done? And then go inside and watch television."

Lucy deposited dishes in the sink with a clatter, then plopped herself down into her chair and picked up the newspaper, defying them. Bruno said helplessly to Murray, "If you want me to fix up a table inside—"

"No," Murray said. "It's all right the way it is."

"Thank you," said Lucy from behind the newspaper.

Murray laid the under on the table. The sheets of paper it enclosed were tissue thin, but even when pressed tight together they bulged as large as a good-sized volume. Bruno drew up a chair alongside Murray's, and they studied the first page together.

"It's from this year," Bruno said, "but that's all I can make of it. What do you make of it?"

The pages were divided into a series of columns, each column a solid row of figures. Murray ran his finger along the horizontal ruled line at the top of a page and said, "Some of it is easy. We'll skip this first one—1121—because that's probably a code for the exact date. But then we've got $220 under gr, which must be the gross receipts for that day, and $140 under al, which would be the net amount left after oeta were paid off, and then immediate Cash Expenses, which, I'd say, is incidental expenses they deducted from the net. And next we have 13E277, which is a code for something else. What are these dates. Then when we hit May third and see a thousand bucks marked down there we know we've got London pegged right. He probably took a lot of graft, but the only payment that means anything to this indictment is the one on May third."

"Wait a second," Bruno said. He peered closely at the page. "I thought so. Somebody's got a real sense of humor in that outfit. You know what immediate Cash Expenses stands for?"

"Sure. It's outlay. Whatever it cost that day to run the operation."

"And now, you look at those initials there, friend, and you're looking at L-C-E for ice. The old payola. The graft. And right next to it, Murray, these are shield numbers. They marked down the number of every cop who collected from them. That's what this 13E277 is. Now why should they want to go to all that trouble? What difference does it make, as long as the pay-off was made?"

"A lot of difference. Every cop whose number is down here must have been a bagman, a captain's man, and his job was to collect and pass it along to the man over him. But what happens when some big shot says to Wykoff, 'I missed a payment last week. You missed about that?' Then all Wykoff has to do is check his records here and say, 'We paid one hundred with this shield number.' And they catch the double-crosser right at the source."

"Do you mean that London—"

"That's what I mean, London—"

recent Kremlin statements suggest they may have been intended mainly as bargaining points to persuade the West to accept Russia's "free city" plan.

The Russians have indicated that they would be willing to assure free Western access to a free Berlin — but that the city would have to sever all economic ties with the West.

That proposal, largely overlooked in previous reports on the Berlin situation, may be the essence of the proposed Soviet deal, Western officials say.

It would mean termination of the 370-million-dollar yearly subsidy from West Germany that now keeps West Berlin alive, forcing its people to choose between trade with the Communists and economic crisis.

Officials believe, from East German economic domination of West Berlin to complete absorption of the city.

Mayor Willy Brandt is aware of the threat.

"We must belong to the Western trading area," he says. "We cannot be separated from the Western market. Political factors are important, but economic factors are vital, too."

Subsidies also make possible tax incentives to businessmen, encouraging them to establish and maintain factories here, and they cover the losses to shippers caused by East German interference with traffic.

—The best BW is that which incapacitates, rather than kills, the greatest number of persons in the shortest possible time.

Aimed At Cities
—BW against people, crops, and farm animals might well be decisive in a war which no other weapons were used. But it could be most effectively used after a nuclear attack which disrupted water, food, medical, and public health systems and through radiation injury reduced a population's resistance to disease.

Participants in the class on BW were Dr. Leroy D. Fothergill of the armed forces BW lab at Fort Detrick, Frederick, Md., Cmdr. W. W. Taylor Jr., head of the biological and chemical warfare branch of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery, Dr. Roger C. Reid, director of the biological sciences division of the Office of Naval Research, Cmdr. Robert W. Swanson, commander of the naval unit at Fort Detrick, and Dr. J. Carlson of the Office of Naval Research.

The speakers emphasized that BW is a strategic weapon against people and that an enemy probably would aim it at cities. U. S. experiments have shown it is possible to spread potentially deadly clouds over thousands of square miles from ships a few miles offshore.

FROM SHIP TO SHORE

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

SIX SMALL PICTURES make a decorative grouping on the plastic wall of a stateroom aboard the new S.S. Argentina.

CURTAINS ARE cleverly hung to create the illusion of covering a large window. What they really conceal is a porthole. The wall lamp, at right, is for use when reading in bed.

suggest the idea that they cover a picture window rather than a mere porthole. Lighting is lovely. Created by Abe Feder, it adds cheerfulness and spaciousness to each room.

A cove of fluorescent light in the corners of the long end of each stateroom, for example, seems to broaden out the room and "lift" the ceiling. Light strips over the vanity mirror illuminate brightly when it's time to apply cosmetics.

A nest nook is a small reflector lamp, mounted on the wall, that directs 40-foot-candles of light onto a book when you're reading in bed.

See-Through Dividers

Another airy idea employs see-through dividers in the public rooms. They're glass partitions, grillwork screens or plant arrangements that divide areas without boxing them in.

The children's nursery is intriguing, too. The best idea here is a rubber tile floor inlaid with a highway, airport, railroad track. Kids love guiding toy cars and planes around them.

All at sea when it comes to decorating? Steal a few ideas from the S.S. Argentina and plan a home that's superbly ship-shape!
